

David A. Koch
<http://nycda.zone/david626/portfolio/>

201A Ardmore Avenue
Haddon Township, NJ 08108

(973) 652-0623
kodave1@gmail.com

WEB DEVELOPMENT EXPERIENCE:

New York Code and Design Academy, Philadelphia, PA

June 2015 - September 2015

- Web Development 100: Evening class focusing on HTML5, CSS3, Javascript and responsive web design
- Front End 101 : Second class that delved deeper into JQuery, SASS, Git, Github, terminal basics, APIs

Projects

Portfolio Website (<http://nycda.zone/david626/portfolio/>)

- One-page website built with HTML, SASS and a JQuery navigation bar

Cool Paintings (http://nycda.zone/david626/Final_Project/pages/)

- Final project site that used HTML, Javascript, Bootstrap and advanced CSS selectors
- Highlighted famous paintings in a scroll setting based off of Netflix's design

Davidakoch.com (<http://davidakoch.com/>)

- Brochure resume site that was my first foray into web development
- Created using a WordPress child theme with plugins for additional functionality

Developers Against Animal Testing (<http://nycda.zone/david626/collabsite/pages/>)

- Collaborative class website to highlight a charity organization
- Used HTML, CSS, and JQuery alert function

Carts R' Us (<http://nycda.zone/david626/bizsite/pages/>)

- Collaborative business site that used html, css and image manipulation with Apple Preview

EXPERIENCE:

Presbyterian Historical Society

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

January 2011-Present

Reference Archivist

- Executed reference responses in an expedient manner, built society's Wikipedia page, aided in the redesign of the society's online catalog for easier public usage, served in collaborative effort to create metadata for 1,000 scanned postcards placed on Wikipedia

Willingboro Public Library

Willingboro, New Jersey

February 2008-October 2010

Reference/Local History Librarian

- Executed reference service to library customers answering 200 to 400 questions a month, drafted lesson plans and handouts in high-demand courses such as Microsoft Word, computer basics and resume workshops, uploaded a dozen local history images online, adding metadata, to the New Jersey Digital Library to promote local history and library, and operated content management system Joomla to update library's monthly calendar

EDUCATION:

Drexel University, Philadelphia, PA

September 2007

Master's Degree in Library and Information Science

Rutgers College, New Brunswick, NJ

June 2000